

A Sloan Family of Hardin County, Ohio

Robert Scott Shaw

In the mid-1830s a Sloan family from County Monaghan made their way from Ireland to southern Hardin County, Ohio and established farms there. The patriarch of this family, John Sloan, was joined there by sons William and Joseph, who had immigrated earlier and had been living in Pennsylvania.

1. John Sloan was born in 1772 in County Monaghan, Ireland.¹ There he married Sarah McClellan, who had been born on 20 Mar 1786 and thus was 14 years his junior.² John and his wife had eleven children in Ireland. In 1834, John (aged 62) and Sarah and most of their family set sail for America, the voyage encountering severe storms and taking seven weeks.³ They spent several weeks in Philadelphia with relatives (perhaps with their son Joseph, who worked three years in a woolen mill there), and then progressed west to Beaver Co., Penn, where one of their sons lived.⁴ (It seems fairly likely that this son was William, since he was in Pennsylvania at this time, and his brother-in-law Rev. George Scott was living in Beaver Co. then.)⁵ After two months in Beaver Co., they set out by covered wagon and reached Hardin Co. in western Ohio. In Oct 1837, John obtained the deed to 123 acres (for $1.50 per acre) from James Taylor of Kentucky, the patent holder.⁶ This parcel was in the southwest corner of Taylor Creek township in Hardin Co., adjacent to McDonald township. On the land was an 16x18 foot cabin into which they moved.⁷ Eight years later they put up an 18x24 foot house.

Sarah died a few years later on 20 Aug 1841, at age 55.⁸ Sarah was the first to be buried in a cemetery established on land taken from John's parcel.⁹ Twenty five years later John died, aged 94, on 26 Apr 1866, and was also buried in that cemetery.¹⁰

2. William Sloan (*John*¹) was born on 30 Apr 1803 in Ireland, presumably in County Monaghan.¹⁶ William married Ann Scott.¹⁷ Ann had been born on 29 Jun 1806 in Ireland.¹⁸ From the 1850 U.S. Census, we learn their first known child was born in Ireland, their next two children in Pennsylvania, and the rest in Ohio. This shows the family immigrated to Pennsylvania between 1830 and 1833, and then moved to Ohio before May of 1836, probably as part of his father's party. Likely much of the time in Pennsylvania was in Beaver County, since Ann's brother lived there and William's father paused there before going by wagon into Ohio.¹⁹ In December 1838, William bought the 123 acre parcel next to his father's acreage in Hardin Co.; on the same day his brother Joseph bought the parcel on the other side of William's.²⁰ After twenty years on this land, William died 22 Sep 1858 at age 55 and was buried in Yelverton (Sugar Ridge) Cemetery.²¹ By 1870, the farm was occupied by Ann and the family of her daughter Sarah.²² Ann died at age 83 on 4 Aug 1889 and was also buried in Yelverton cemetery.²³

- 17 v. Margaret H. Sloan was born about 1839 in Ohio.
- 18 vi. William H. Sloan was born about 1841 in Ohio. He became a wheat farmer in Independence, Kansas; his wife's name was Rhoddie.²⁵

He and a brother contracted to build part of the Indianapolis, Bloomington & Western Railroad.²⁸ Joseph married Martha Roberts in Hardin Co. on 23 Sep 1853.²⁹ He died on 4 Nov 1877 in Hardin Co., at age 73.³⁰

In the 1850s Thomas went to Ireland, and there married Eliza Sloan on 22 Mar 1852.³⁵ She had been born in Co. Monaghan in May 1835.³⁶ They settled on a farm of 123 acres in Taylor
